

A stream of air moves through a tube which is initially wide but becomes narrower. Two thin vertical columns rise up from the main pipe, one from the wide part and one from the narrow part. Two small balls sitting inside these vertical pipes are free to move up and down, but no air escapes around them. Which picture describes the correct relative position of the two balls?

